

“In a society as diverse as ours, young people need the knowledge and skills to understand different beliefs and values, to find common ground, and to thrive together.” rethinkRE 2025

At Inglewood Nursery and Infant School, Religious Education and Worldviews aims to recognise the cultural diversity of our school, wider community and the country.

In Early Years, by first beginning with exploring and sharing their own experiences of family, culture and beliefs, we aim for our students to develop a curiosity and growing understanding about others in our school community.

Based on the Cumberland SACRe Agreed syllabus, our Key stage One curriculum continues to foster an environment where children can be curious, ask questions and learn about organised religions and worldviews.

Through opportunities to visit places of religious significance, meet religious figures within the local community, handle and examine religious artefacts and listen to stories from different religions, we aim to provide relevant and engaging opportunities to equip our young learners with the knowledge, understanding and skills needed to grow up in today's diverse and connected world.
